Central Board Considers Sentinel Recommendations This Afternoon

Publications Board Approves Woody for Editor, Harrigan for Business Manager of 1933 Year Book

At its last meeting of the quarter at 5 o'clock this afternoon, Central Board will consider recommendations for editor and business manager of the Sentinel which have been sent to that body by Publications Board. The latter group, after a meeting last week and yesterday afternoon, has recommended Mary Elizabeth Woody of Helena, as editor of the yearbook, and Kathleen Harrigan of Billings, as business manager. Both women are seniors in the School of Journalism.

Mary Woody has worked for several years on the Kalmin staff as reporter and as a member of the advertising department. Kathleen Harrigan also has worked on the Kalmin, as well as on the 1932 Sentinel. Both have started tentative outlining of their work on the yearbook. One of the plans consists of the formation of a council to be composed of members selected from Publications Board to confer with them on further plans.

The only other application for editor was made by Harry Billings of Camas. Other applicants seeking the post of business manager were Milton Wertz of Missoula, and Radcliffe Macey of Superior.

In speaking of the changes made, Pete Meloy, president of A. S. U. M., said, "We are sorry about this delay but due to the problems confronted, it could not be avoided. One of the most discouraging factors has been the attitude of the student body toward the Sentinel. Although the students seem to want a yearbook, they do not support it. They should co-operate with the editor and business manager in all their requests."

Professors Attend Meet At Spokane

Northwest Scientific Association Has Five Local Professors On 1932 Program

Six professors at the State University expect to attend the annual meeting of the Northwest Scientific Association at Spokane, December 28 and 29, where they will participate in a program devoted to the study of Forestry and other sciences.

J. H. Ramskill, professor of Forestry, will speak on the subject of progress in research of the utilization of forests, and Dean T. C. Spaulding will talk on the research needs for the future of fire protection. C. W. Waters, professor of botany, will review research needs against fungi and plant diseases.

Other lectures will be delivered by Dr. Charles Deiss and Pres. C. H. Clapp. Doctor Deiss will speak on the subject of Montana paleozoic formations, based on the research done by him this summer. Prof. G. D. Shallenberger also may attend the meeting.

The Northwest Scientific association is an organization for the promotion and promulgation of the sciences on the Pacific northwest. Members of the State University faculty who are officers in the association are: Professor Spaulding, vice-president; President Clapp and Professor Shallenberger, counselors. Melvin A. Brannon, chancellor of the Greater University of Montana, is one of the trustees of the organization.

Registrar's Office Issues Statement Regarding Fines

The Registrar's office announces that students who have registered for the winter quarter, to avoid a fine must pay their fees by January 3 or 4. New students must register and pay fees on January 3. Students who have failed to register this quarter must register and pay fees and are subject to a fine on January 3. The penalty for not paying fees is $2 and $1 a day thereafter, with a maximum of $5.

Under the old rule, students were allowed the first week to pay fees without payment of a fine. John Compton has been confined to his room at South hall the past few days because of illness.

Fall Quarter Cadet Work Ends Soon

Students Doing Practice Teaching Will Complete Training This Week

Cadets who are now doing their practice teaching in the public schools of Missoula will complete their training at the end of this quarter. According to Prof. W. E. Maddock, no estimate of the number of students who will be enrolled in the practice teaching class for winter quarter can be made until registration is complete.

The cadets who have finished their practice teaching are: Olive Barnett, Maude Evelyn Lehou, Jane Nofsinger, Phyllis Lehmann, Hilmer Hansen, Evelyn Henriksen, Mrs. Edith Jones, Beatrice Rothenberg, Lovira Hart, Russell Kinney, Missoula; Donald Creveling, Cascade; Alice Tucker, Billings; Louise Aigle, Combs; Arthur Jackson, Kalispell; Curley Goswiler, Troy; Eliza Hufman, Phillipsburg; Genevieve Krum, Anaconda; Cornelia Stussy, Catherine Coughlin, Butte; Michael Mansfield, Adelaide Olinger, Great Falls; Ellen Galusha, Helena; and Mildred Dorsay, Bigfork.

Masquers Award Students Points For Performance

Members of Cast and Production Staff Are Recognized for Work in "R. U. R."

Members of the cast and the producing staff of "R. U. R." have been given points towards membership into the Montana Masquers. The points were given under the new mechanical system of awards based on the number of lines of each player, which was recently adopted by the Masquers.

The students who were members of the cast and the number of points they earned are as follows: Leslie Pace, 10; Estelle Fletcher, 6; William Blaskovich, 6; Ruth Wallace, 10; Taylor Gardner, 8; Elmo Cure, 8; Robert Bates, 8; Eugene Manis, 8; Jerome Franklin, 8; Martha Kimball, 6; Margaret Milne, 6; William Haegs, 6; David Duncan, 3; Robert Myers, 3; Eugene Hanton, 3; John Shenk, 3; Philip Pollard, 3; Stephen Angland, 3; Albert McArthur, 3, and John More, 3.

Those who assisted in the technical end of the production and the points awarded are: Philip Patterson, 6; Melvin Hedine, 9; George Boleau, 3; Joseph Wagner, 6; Eugene Hanton, 3; Earl Welton, 4; Alan Odgen, 6; Richard Shaw, 10; Philip Miller, 3; Jack Robinson, 7; Lina Greene, 4; Ossia Taylor, 7; Katherine Mason, 5; Mary Kohn, 5; Emma Boles, 6; Catherine Howatson, 5; Shirley Knight, 7; Antoinette LaCasse, 3; Catherine Mead, 5, and Edward Jeffrey, 1.

Maddock Writes Education Article

An article entitled, "How Public Schools Reward Teachers for Summer Study," by W. E. Maddock, chairman of the board of recommendations, appeared in the November issue of "The Nation's Schools," monthly educational magazine.

Of the 848 cities studied, 533 of them offer definite monetary inducement for teachers to attend summer school, while 234 penalize for failure to attend occasionally.

"I am sure the material contained in the article will be of interest to our readers, and will be valuable to superintendents who have to deal with the problems of encouraging teachers to study during the summer or in some other tangible way," said M. V. O'Shea, editor-in-chief of the magazine and professor of education at the University of Wisconsin, in regard to Professor Maddock's article.

Man Who Took Part in Shooting Begins Sentence

C. O. Brown Will Serve Four-Year Penitentiary Term for Attack On Campus Watchman

C. O. (Stick) Brown, identified as one of the three men who a year ago this month attacked two State University watchmen, was sentenced to serve four years in the state penitentiary when he pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Theodore Lentz last Saturday.

Brown was identified by Watchmen T. H. Eubank and John McFarland as the member of the trio who actually did the shooting. Joe Giddings, identified by the watchmen as being another of the attackers, has been held on bail to answer the same charges. His attorney secured dismissal of his case Saturday on the grounds that trial was not held within six months after filing of the information in court. County Attorney Worden filed an information in justice court immediately after the dismissal of the case and Giddings was arrested and released on $1,000 bond. Giddings is pleading not guilty and if the new information which the county attorney is attempting to file is overruled by the judge the case against him will be dismissed.

The case grew out of the shooting of the two campus watchmen by the men when they met on the campus a year ago. The men acted suspiciously and the watchmen tried to find out what they were doing on the campus. Following a short conversation one of the men drew a revolver from his pocket and fired at Eubank, hitting him in the chest. He then turned, shot McFarland in the leg and began to run. The watchmen exchanged shots with the retreating men and it was thought that one of them was hit.

Brown was located at Butte this summer and was brought to Missoula where he has been held in the county jail. After being sentenced Saturday, he was taken to Deer Lodge, where he began serving his sentence Sunday.

State Survey Of Education Is Conducted

Brannon Prepares Report On Units Of The Greater University For Legislature

Continuing a conference started yesterday, Chancellor Melvin A. Brannon will meet today with Pres. C. H. Clapp to discuss student and University problems in preparation for a detailed Greater University report to be given the State Legislature when it convenes in January.

All units of the Greater University are being studied with the idea of presenting an integrated idea of Montana's educational philosophy, which has become nationally known. A number of states have attempted to formulate their educational pattern after Montana's but have not been altogether successful. The plan of locating the Chancellor's office at the state capital is designed to do away with any prejudice or partiality which might result were it located on any one campus.

Chancellor Brannon has just completed his survey at Montana State College and will leave for Eastern Montana Normal School at Billings tomorrow. He will remain there to deliver the commencement address Friday. His talk will be on "A Grade School Teacher."

"Very often students fail to realize that we are interested in the students' well-being, economic problems and social life; but feel rather that we deal only with buildings, appropriations and budgets. In our conference we will study the individual student as well as the schools," Chancellor Brannon said yesterday.

MASQUERS WILL PRESENT ONE-ACT PLAY TONIGHT

"Power of Fate," a one-act comedy drama, will be presented by the Montana Masquers at a meeting of the local Elks' lodge this evening.

Members of the cast are: Fate, David Duncan; servant, Taylor Gardner; young woman, Alice Taylor; and young man, Eugene Hanton. Barnard W. Hewitt has directed the play.

Dr. Harry Turney-High is confined to St. Patrick's hospital with influenza.

Sunderlin Is Successful In Preliminary Contest For Rhodes Scholarship

Armin J. Hill, Montana State College, Also Will Compete in Final Contest for District to Be Held in Spokane Tomorrow; Men from Six States Are Entered

Eugene Sunderlin, a senior in the Chemistry and Mathematics departments at the State University, was one of the two successful candidates in the Montana State Rhodes Scholarship tests held in Butte yesterday. Armin J. Hill, Montana State College graduate, was the other man chosen to represent Montana at the district examinations in Spokane on Wednesday.

Sunderlin, a resident of Missoula, has been prominent in activities at the University. He is a member of Silent Sentinels, Kappa Tau, Pi Mu Epsilon, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, social fraternity. He is a member of the state championship tennis doubles team. He was a member of Bear Paw and the Wrangler staff. This is his second competition for a Rhodes scholarship. Two years ago he passed the state examination and was one of Montana's representatives at the district examination.

Hill graduated from the State College last spring, having majored in electrical engineering. He was a member of Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary, and Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary. He was active in debate and was business manager of the Montanan and an associate editor of the Exponent.

In the tests at Spokane tomorrow, the Montana representatives will compete against students from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming and North Dakota. From this group, two men will be chosen to receive scholarships. H. G. Merriam, professor of English at the State University, is a member of the district committee.

Members of the Montana examining board, all Oxford graduates, are Dr. F. A. Thompson, president of the State School of Mines, chairman; James R. Thomas, secretary; Andrew V. Corry, Dr. Emanuel Sternheim and Paul K. Heinessy. Mr. Merriam was present at the meeting. Other State University candidates were Cade Crowley, Butte; Richard Lake, Judith Gap; and Rubin Lewon, Glasgow.

The survey shows a high percentage of delinquency among the children of the county, there having been reported to Mrs. Jane Bailey, the county's probation officer, 471 delinquent children during the year 1931. In spite of this heavy amount of work, Mrs. Bailey is serving in four other counties.

Due to the necessity of cutting the expenses of education in the county the program providing special training for crippled or retarded children has had to be abandoned. Service from the truancy officer is limited also because of the fact that he must serve the whole school system on a part-time basis.

The average sized Missoula family is about four persons which is somewhat less than the American average. The survey also shows that this is not a broken family as there is little employment of women and children outside of the home.

A high divorce rate is shown, there being during the past five years about one divorce to every 3.6 marriages, whereas the ratio for the United States in 1929 is one to six.

Students Receive Masquers Honor Thursday Evening

Seven Men and Women Are Initiated Into Honorary Organization For Outstanding Work

Seven new members were initiated into the Montana Masquers at their last meeting held Thursday evening in the Little Theater. Those initiated were: Ruth Wallace, Melvin Hedine, Jack Robinson, Philip Miller, Phoebe Patterson, Ossia Taylor, all of Missoula, and Clara Mabel Foot, Helena. Several other students were eligible for initiation but were unable to attend the meeting. These students will be admitted into the organization next quarter.

During the business meeting of the group, it was decided to give student authors of one-act plays, 10 points towards membership if the plays are produced by the Masquers, and no other remuneration is given. Jack Robinson was elected business manager of the organization.

An over-heated furnace caused alarm at the Kappa Delta house yesterday just after noon when the asbestos wrappings around the pipes began to smoke. The fire department was called, but no damage was done.

A.W.S. Gives Christmas Party For Youngsters

Children's Stockings Are Distributed To Almost Two Hundred at Entertainment

Approximately two hundred Missoula school children were guests of Associated Women Students Saturday afternoon at a Christmas party given in the women's gymnasium. Buses went to the school houses throughout the city and brought the children to the University.

The party was held between 2:30 and 5 o'clock. Games furnished entertainment until Santa Claus appeared to distribute the gifts. Each child was given a sack of candy and nuts, and an apple. In accordance with the custom started last year, stockings were also given to each child. Previously toys were given, but it was decided to make the gifts more practical.

Chairmen of committees in charge of the affair included: presents, Helen Kelleher; invitations, Emma Bravo; buses, Betty Kelleher; games, Doris Kindusky; refreshments, Marjorie Mumm; entertainment, Hazel Thomas, and costumes, Jeanette Eldering.

Theta Sigma Phi Pledges Tonight

Kappa chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, women's national honorary journalism fraternity, will pledge four new members this evening. Mary Elizabeth Woody, Helena; Mearl Francisco, Intake; Faye Nimbar, Miles City, and Helen Huxley, Lewistown, will be the pledges. Pledging will take place at the Alpha Phi house, 1107 Gerald avenue.

Membership in Theta Sigma Phi requires a high standard of scholarship and outstanding achievement in journalism. Only women majoring in journalism who have junior standing may become members.

Viola Everson, '30, is teaching at Dagmar, Montana.

From the SENIOR BENCH

MAS, as an abbreviation for Christmas, is something that has always slightly irritated us, although we admit that it has its uses and its users. Americans, we have been told, are always in a hurry. Split the seconds and count minutes saved. But it does seem to be carrying speed a little to extremes when Christmas is included in the abbreviated. There is something beautiful in the leisurely observance of Christmas, a beauty that is lost when speed is made the theme of that day. Of course, there are times when nothing but the abbreviation can be used. That together with the inelasticity of column type, is our excuse to ourselves and you for having used the abbreviation in this column. Prefix "Merry" and add "Happy New Year," and you'll gather our sentiment.

MORE than one hundred and seventy-five of the unfortunate children of the city attended the annual Christmas party given by the Associated Women Students of the State University last Saturday. Children of various sizes, ages and conditions of poverty overflowed the women's gymnasium. Children with missing teeth, runny noses, patched trousers and unpatched sweaters. Children whose coats were decorated with safety pins in place of buttons, whose worn stockings struggled around their ankles, whose faces and dispositions showed the effects of too much cold weather and too little food. Children who openly and cynically refused to accept Santa Claus, and children who were frightened to hysterical tears at the sight of the old gentleman. Humor and pathos, comedy and tragedy, all lined up for a sack of candy and a pair of cheap stockings.

ALBERT EINSTEIN is a member of the communistic and bolshevistic parties, and goodness knows what all. A dangerous man. And who would have thought it, judging from his pictures. It just goes to show that you never can tell. Seriously, we were almost annoyed with our fellow countrymen, when the dears tried to get a petition passed which would keep this dangerous individual out of the land of the free, etc. But we decided we won't have to worry when we read Einstein's response. "You must remember," he said, "that Rome was once saved from destruction by the cackling of some pet geese." Which is a sufficiently catty remark to assure us that Einstein can take care of himself, even in America.

SATURDAY examinations are going to be something new to most of us. The Law school, we understand, has been having examinations on Saturday for a long time. But the Law school is privileged in a good many ways. For instance, all exams there are taken under the honor system. It seems a little ridiculous to think that students of college age should need chaperone even at examinations. One reason, say the lawyers, why their examinations can be successfully conducted under the honor system is that there is no possibility for them to cheat with the type of material they have to know. More exact subjects can be successfully summarized on a fragment of paper which will be of inestimable value in the examination. But when it is so possible to summarize a course, the examination seems unnecessary. An examination in such a course can be nothing more than a memory test—a test for which a few hours of cramming, or the fragmentary summary, will be of more help than the quarter's acquisition of information. However, since examinations schedules have already been published—good luck with them, and again, Merry Christmas!

BUSINESS MANAGER

Yesterday afternoon Publications Board recommended the selection of a new editor and business manager of this year's Sentinel. The decision to publish the yearbook has met with the general desire of the student body to maintain this tradition. An annual is a record of school days, one in which students will take pleasure in after years. Seniors especially value the publication as it is a complete record of four years of work, of happy times and a goal achieved.

The new staff deserves all the co-operation of the student body in putting out the book. Two distinct handicaps confront the publishers, namely, the late start they are getting and the financial difficulties involved. If it is successfully published in June, it will be greatly to the credit of its editors and they may enjoy the feeling of having accomplished a worthwhile piece of work.

We now know how high school seniors regard their teachers, due to a survey of 10,000 budding high school graduates made by Frank W. Hart, professor of education at the University of California. It was found that about half of the high school teachers graded

The Acid Test were "flunked" by their pupils and we wonder just how many instructors on this campus would pass the acid test if students were allowed to judge them. The inquiry revealed that to be helpful with lessons, sincerity, impartiality and broadmindedness comprise the first rule to success in the high school student's viewpoint concerning his instructors.

Voice and culture were found to be virtually negligible factors. Eighty per cent of the students regarded the teachers most popular to them personally as the best educator. Twenty per cent described the ideal educator as possessing a mixture of qualities, some pleasing, some displeasing to the earnest student.

Sins of the less popular instructors were listed by the students as negligence, over-bearing attitude, partiality, ignorance of the subject taught, lack of understanding and "too cross" a disposition.

We suggest that some ambitious college student conduct a survey of this type before the year is over. Even though it might not prove beneficial, it would satisfy our curiosity.

Only two more days remain before the spectre of examinations will raise up its clutching arms and firmly, relentlessly, hug a stricken populace to its bosom. If that isn't a fine note on which to sound a "Merry Christmas," we must be wrong again. College, we think, would lose most of its savor, were it not for the omnipresent oft-regarded examination schedule. And the happy lapse of three weeks in which to recuperate between quarters, would lose much of its appeal, had we not the conversational topic of last-night cramming, belated projects and hair-curling examinations on which to dwell, before and after.

The freshmen dread the sessions in the gymnasium because they have heard so much of their terror-dealing proclivities and because they know not whether they will survive them. The rest of us dread them because we've been through the ordeal before and because we wonder just how much longer we will be able to go on. And the great majority spends the last few days, originally planned for the cram sessions, in bringing joy to the hearts of hot chocolate dispensers and in voluble discussions on what kind of a schedule was drawn.

Anyhow, what we started to say (if you've read this far), is that we hope we'll all get through together. And we wish you the merriest of Merry Christmases and hope we'll see you back next January.

Society Brevities

The Mothers' club of Sigma Nu fraternity entertained Sunday from 5 to 7 o'clock for pledges and actives of Sigma Nu. The party was held at the home of Mrs. R. C. Shaver, on Keith avenue. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. A. P. Krebs, Mrs. Floyd Hardenburg, Mrs. H. E. High, Mrs. R. E. Gilham and Mrs. M. C. Jakways.

Mrs. Bernard F. Oakes will hold an informal tea for members of Alpha Chi Omega sorority today. The tea will be held at her home, 335 McLeod, from 4 to 5:30 o'clock.

Hockey May Be Intramural Sport

Harry Adams Recommends Activity For Winter Quarter

Director of Intramural Athletics, Harry Adams, has suggested to the Interfraternity managers that hockey be adopted as a part of the regular winter sports program.

"Conditions this year indicate that there will be a lot of good skating weather and now would be an excellent time to inaugurate hockey. No matches will be played before the Christmas holidays, but it will be necessary for me to know soon what organizations wish to enter teams or what individuals wish to play. If matches are to be played, teams must be organized by the different fraternities groups now so that play may begin immediately after the opening of winter quarter," Adams stated.

Fraternity managers are urged by Adams to report the decisions to him as soon as possible.

FORMER STUDENT OPERATES CAMPUS RESTAURANT

Bob Harper, a graduate of the School of Business Administration at the State University in 1926, has taken over the Hut, campus eating place. The Hut was formerly operated by George Wellcome, at present a student in the State University.

Jack Watson, a graduate of Washington State College at Pullman, is in partnership with Harper. Both men have been in business in Missoula for the past five years.

Basketeers Are Fighting For Places

Lewandowski Stresses Importance Of Squad Maintaining Grade Average

Twenty-seven hoopsters will enter examination week with two battles on their hands; one with the instructors, to knock over the finals and stay on the eligibility list, and the other among themselves, to secure places on the Grizzly squad before Coach Lewandowski gets the axe out and begins to cut the squad for the final drive before the first game.

The lineup is on and the squad is top heavy with ambitious basketballers who are trying to escape the coach's paring knife. Daily practice will be held this week. The men's gymnasium will be used until Thursday when the squad will shift to the women's gym.

Squad Practices Daily

Practice will continue during Christmas vacation when a training table will be established at the Hut. The men who will remain on the squad during this time have not yet been chosen but they will be named in a few days.

Coach Lewandowski is planning only light workouts during examination week in order to give the men more time to study. He is stressing the importance of studying in connection with basketball as the eligibility of many of the Grizzlies' star players depends on the grades they secure this quarter.

Competition Is Keen

Another member will be added to the squad during the vacation period when Jack McDonald of Corwin Hot Springs, returns to complicate the struggle for the forward positions. McDonald showed fine form last year until he dropped out of school. His return will add zest to the hot race for positions against the stiffest competition in years.

The Idaho Vandals will oppose the Grizzlies in the season's opener here on Friday and Saturday, December 30 and 31. Montana supporters will be pleased when they get their first glimpse of the Grizzlies in their new uniforms. The old red outfit has been replaced by a nifty white suit trimmed in copper, with "Montana" written in script across the breast and numbers in the front and rear of the shirt.

Lemmon Studies At Wisconsin

Paul Lemmon, a graduate of the State University School of Botany, is a student in plant physiology at the University of Wisconsin, according to information recently received by Dr. J. W. Severy.

Mr. Lemmon is studying under Dr. D. M. Duggar, an internationally known plant physiologist. At present, Lemmon is working on an experiment testing the respiration of chlorella. He is using one of the latest of scientific instruments which accurately determines gas exchange. He is also working with Dr. Duggar on the temperature relations in connection with virus causing mosaic of tobacco.

Last summer, Lemmon co-operated with Dr. Hollaender, a national research Fellow, on a problem investigating the effect of irradiation upon various plant processes.

MRS. SCHROEDER LEAVES

Company A Gets Basketball Title In Final Game

Third Game Fayed With Company C Decides Intercompany Championship

Company A won the intercompany basketball tournament last Saturday when they won from Company C, 43-22. Each team had won two victories over Company B and the Band and, in two games between each other for the championship Company A won the first and Company C the second.

Saturday's game was rather one-sided, Company A getting the lead early in the game and holding it throughout.

Foresters Prepare To Collect Boughs

Christmas Vacation Will See First Preparation for Ball

Members of the School of Forestry who are planning to remain in Missoula during the Christmas vacation will form a crew to obtain cedar boughs from the Haye's creek district as decorations for the annual Foresters' Ball, which will be held in the men's gymnasium February 10.

Millard Evenson, Whitefish, Chief Push of this year's Ball, said that four truckloads of boughs and trees will be cut and hauled to the space back of the gymnasium, where they will be stored.

Jack Hinman, Rapelle, will be in charge of the crew which will consist of John Isaacson, Mark Lawrence, Joel Frykman, Chandler Jensen, Larry Neff and Lloyd Hague of Missoula; Walt Pool, Torrington, Wyo.; Virgil Stephens, Colo. Iowa; Marion McCarty, Wilkinsburg, Penn., and Ed Rauma, Eveleth, Minn. More men are expected to join the crew before the work is completed.

Clarence Spaulding, forestry graduate in 1928 was in Missoula last week.

Two-Mule Trolley Was Early Student Conveyance

In a horsecar (drawn by two mules or occasionally one mule and one horse), students during December, 1898 rode to the Willard school, the first home of the State University. If the car tracks were frozen, and students were in a hurry to get to class, they could induce the driver to pull off the track and short-cut across ice-covered vacant lots. When the car arrived at school, the power was taken off one end and placed on the other for the return trip.

Almost a year has gone since the last memorable trip of the electric street car, when a group of rowdy (?) University students riding on the Southside car making its last trip, blew the whistle until the air brakes refused to function and tore the Wrigley's, Smith Brothers, Maxwell House, and Old Gold advertisements from the ceiling as souvenirs. Reminders of the tooting, clanging bells, stopping to place the contact rod on the wire, wicker chairs and starting and stopping jerks are all contained in the few cherished street car slugs extant. Then the street car was part of daily lives, it was animate, and waiting for it was a routine task.

They are still in Missoula, in the grey barns on the West side. There are hundreds of tracks and wires leading from the closed gate to the barns, but none leading away to thousands of stops and changes on runs the cars never failed to make. They are there for a long rest—maybe some day they will be taken to a scrap heap or possibly to a museum. Meanwhile we have entered the age of gasoline.

Graduates Instruct In Saco Schools

Dorothy Tupper, a graduate of the Department of Fine Arts last year, has been teaching in Saco this year, according to word received by C. H. Riedell, head of the department.

Miss Tupper offered a number of her works for exhibition in November, and has sold several pieces from the display. Since then, she has received many orders for pictures.

At present she is teaching art, music, grammar, and literature in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

Loisjane Stephenson, another graduate of last year's class, is a member of the high school faculty at Saco.

Bassoon, Clarinet Welders Wanted

New Instrument Causes Consternation To Band Leader

Who can play a bassoon? If there exists, among the loyal students of Montana, a person gifted with a talent for drawing sweet notes from the instrument, he is asked—urgently—to front and center to the band practice quarters in Simpkins hall. There he will bring immediate comfort to the harassed-looking individual who seeketh in vain for a companion to a newly-reconditioned bassoon.

For Director Stanley Teel is the recipient of one of those slender, innocent-appearing instruments which has recently returned from the factory. And what good, we ask you, is a bassoon which lacks a player?

An influx of clarinet welders also is desired for next quarter's band, as five men are not returning to school in January.

Alluring Music

"Music hath charms," may be an old proverb but it still holds true. It may be a different brand of music but its enchantment is not lost.

South hall residents, especially, agree with this old adage. For their radio which is situated in the parlor of the hall is always surrounded by a large group of students. Comfortable chairs are held at a premium in the evening and economics, P. and E. P., English and other subjects are studied to the soothing music of Phil Harris or to any of the other popular orchestras of the air.

If a professor should find "Cocanut Grove," "Phil Harris," "Guy Lombardo," or any other terms of the air, mixed in with an otherwise well-written theme, he should remember the radio at South hall.

FRATERNITY PRESIDENT VISITS LOCAL CHAPTER

Miss Gertrude Evans of Ithaca, N. Y., national president of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity for women, arrived in Missoula, Sunday, on a tour of inspection. Last night the local organization held a meeting at the home of DeLoss Smith, head of the School of Music.

Henry Miller was a guest at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house for dinner Sunday.

Men Studying at South Hall See Hit and Run Tragedy

It was study hour at South hall. Rows of lights from the rooms gleamed softly through the snow. Youths with rumpled hair bent over desks littered with books, papers and cigarette butts. Everything was quiet.

Suddenly the roar of a car coming down the street behind the hall broke the silence. On it came, nearly to the corner, then—a squeal of brakes—a shrill scream, and the car roared again and sped south down Maurice avenue. Windows in the hall flew up and heads popped into view. Under the light at the corner two figures bent over something lying huddled on the icy street. "Someone's been killed!" a student shouted and everyone rushed down the stairs.

As the boys hurried toward the little group in the street they heard a little girl's muffled sobbing, then a gasping, hysterical question, "Oh Mother, is she dead?" The mother's voice, choked with emotion, answered, "Yes dear, I'm afraid she is. It's too bad. Patsy was a good girl."

Hugh Redding, a graduate of the School of Forestry with the class of 1931, who is now employed as a government forest ranger at Pierce, Ida., is a campus visitor.

Survey Class Maps Out Campus Grounds

Second-year Foresters Labor for Class Credit

Tackling the job in a manner that would make one think it had never been done before, sophomores in the School of Forestry a few weeks ago began the annual survey of the campus.

Each year the sophomore surveying class gains practical experience by surveying and making a traverse map of the ground included between Maurice avenue and the bleachers, on the west and east, and the Library and the R. O. T. C. building, on the north and south. The maps must show the buildings and other features which are found on that part of the campus.

The students work in groups of three, with each group equipped with a set of surveying and mapping equipment. The method used is to establish a base line at some point on the ground to be mapped from which calculations as to distances and directions are made.

NORTH HALL DONATION

A Reminiscence

Has the snow lost its fascination for us or just why have we grieved so much since the recent fall of temperature? Students and even faculty members who scrutinize the whiteness outside with disapproving eyes seem to have completely forgotten their kid days, in the not too-distant past, when the first snowstorm brought untold delight in the form of sliding and snowballing. Some University students practice sliding about the campus now but it is purely accidental and not for the love of the sport.

Not in any way will that clever lawyer, whom we see striding manfully between the Students' Store and the Law building, thinking legal thoughts, betray the fact that once upon a time he thought very illegal thoughts and puckered up his lips and pouted when "mamma" wouldn't "let him go out and play in the snow." And the breath-taker over in the geology class has not always been so cynical regarding a "cold-snap." He once coasted down hills and liked it, naming rocks and trees only when they painfully interfered with his path of progress.

Why should that tall brunette dread to march up University avenue to an 8 o'clock? No doubt ten years back she was spanked and put to bed superfluous for eating icicles or for a nagging insistence for freedom to wallow in the drifts.

The dignified old gentleman who lectures so many times each week has not always been so immune from play. Get him in a good humor first and then bring the conversation back to his childhood. When he sees the attitude of dignity and disgust which you have assumed, he will probably recount some rather devilish childhood pranks in detail.

Limpus Is Elected President of Board

Oskar Limpus was elected president of the Student Store Board at its meeting last Friday evening. Morris McCollum will continue to serve as secretary of the board and manager of the store.

Plans for obtaining better co-operation among the faculty and students in the buying and selling of books were discussed at this meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Goodwin visited their son, Ted, at the Sigma Chi house last week. They are en route to California where their son will join them for the holidays.

Montana Representatives at Coast Meeting

Graduate Manager Kirk Badgley (left) and Dean of Men J. E. Miller, who last week attended the sessions of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Athletic conference. Mr. Miller acted as faculty representative and Mr. Badgley was present at the meetings of the graduate managers, where the 1934 football schedule, means of balancing budgets and the broadcasting of games featured the discussions.

Department of Art Given Oil Painting

Major A. J. Treichler has presented to the Department of Fine Arts an oil painting of Mt. Lolo, painted by himself. The picture was given to the department this fall.

Last spring students in the art classes were invited to watch Major Treichler paint the canvas, and during the process many of them wrote short essays describing the way in which he developed the picture.

This is the first time an artist outside the Department of Fine Arts has painted a picture for the students, allowing them to watch the work progress.

GRADUATE COMPLETES MASTER THESIS WORK

Marguerite Heinsch, graduate assistant to Dr. W. P. Clark, head of the Department of Latin and Greek, completed her thesis and examination for her Master's degree last Friday. Her thesis, "Studies in Lucan," an epic poet of high second rating, was so remarkable that Dr. Clark has found several chapters suitable for publication in classical journals.

Miss Heinsch plans to start work for her Ph.D. degree next year.

Mrs. Monica Burke Swearingen, who has been confined to her home for the past few days with flu, resumed her work at the University yesterday.

Notices

All women who played on hockey teams in the tournament this quarter and have not yet received their numerals may have them by getting in touch with Leola Stevens, W. A. A. president, some time this week.

Varsity Vodvil manuscripts for men's and women's acts for Barbs must be turned in to Emma Bravo, chairman, by January 7.

Leonard Speaks To Women's Party

At a dinner held by the Montana branch of the National Women's party held at the Chimney Corner Thursday evening, Dorothy Leonard, Missoula, a sophomore in the Department of English, spoke on the "Equality Status of Women in the World Court."

Miss Leonard's talk dealt with one of the principal measures fostered by the Women's party—the support of the Nye resolution which would do away with sex inequality in the World Court. An amendment placing men and women on the same basis in all activities and equality in nationality, under which women's status would be the same as men's also was discussed.

The remainder of the program consisted of songs, which were accompanied by Mrs. Claude Elder, chairman of the music committee.

Margaret Harris, '26, of Havre, who was recently elected County Superintendent of Schools of Hill county, resigned her position as instructor of Foreign languages at the Teton county high school at Choteau, and will return to Havre to assume her duties the first of the year.
